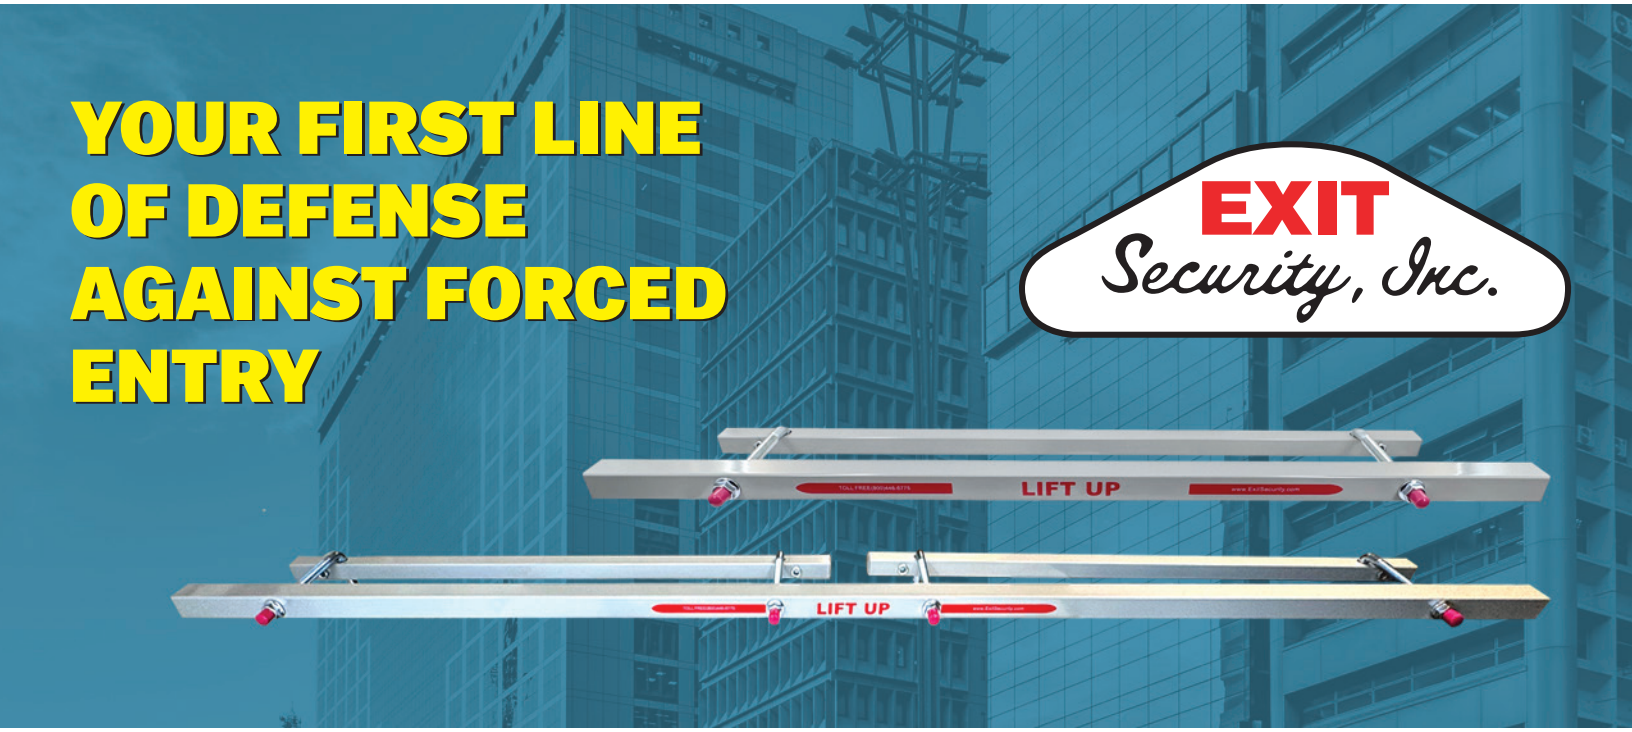
IML SECURITY SUPPLY



A strong, physical deterrent is the best way to prevent today's criminals from breaking in. Modern criminals are fast and efficient and often require no longer than three minutes to complete their burglary. This means electronic alarm systems are not as effective when used without a strong physical deterrent.

These heavy-duty security bars are ideal for many commercial exits regardless of door size and IML Security Supply stocks both single and double doors with different swing functions. These bars features a unique, patented, hook-on/lift-off operation that is easy to use and emergency sensitive.

Exit Security Bars are manufactured using durable steel and designed for easy installation and easy operation on a daily basis.

Scan to view inventory

Ask an IML Representative for more information and product availability.